

DEAN, COLLEGE OF LAW
DEPAUL UNIVERSITY
Chicago, Illinois

DePaul University College of Law in Chicago, Illinois seeks an outstanding leader with a deep knowledge of and commitment to legal education for the position of Dean.

For more than a century, DePaul University has maintained its core values even as the university has grown to include five Chicago-area campuses and nearly 24,000 students from a broad range of ethnic, religious, geographic and economic backgrounds. DePaul now ranks as the largest Catholic university in the country and the nation's twelfth largest private university. DePaul University College of Law is committed to improving the legal community by educating students who will serve the public and legal profession in ways that enhance the social, economic, cultural and ethical values of the broader community. Known for its progressive nature since its founding in 1912, the College of Law was among the first law schools to introduce such educational innovations as the study of negotiation techniques, courses in international criminal law and courses in pre-trial skills and techniques. The College of Law is an integral part of the larger DePaul University, a world-class urban institution of higher learning offering law students all the advantages of DePaul's considerable resources. More information can be found at www.law.depaul.edu and www.depaul.edu.

The successful candidate will, at a minimum, possess a J.D. degree or equivalent and have an outstanding record of accomplishment in the legal academy and/or the practice of law that warrants appointment as a Professor of Law. He or she will be a successful teacher, will excel at scholarship, will be a proven leader, and will have demonstrated a commitment to service to the legal profession and the public. The University actively encourages applications from and nominations of women, minorities, and candidates with diverse cultural backgrounds.
